Find the Full Text of an E-Journal Article Using PITTCat

PITTCat for the Health Sciences (pittcat.hsls.pitt.edu) is the online catalog of the University of Pittsburgh and includes the availability information for e-journals and other materials held in all University of Pittsburgh libraries—not just in Oakland, but in the regional campus libraries as well.

- PITTCat does not include copies of journal articles, but does provide links to the full text of articles when available.
- For various reasons, it’s not always possible to link to full-text articles from databases such as PubMed or Ovid MEDLINE. PITTCat is the most comprehensive source for locating e-journals available at the University of Pittsburgh.

Access PITTCat at pittcat.hsls.pitt.edu.

Search Screen:

Step 1: Enter journal title

Step 2: Select “All Electronic”

Step 3: Select “Journal title Begins with”

Step 4: Click on “Search”
Next you will see one of the following two screens:

NOTE: Full-text availability varies depending on the time period allowed by the HSLS e-journal subscription. The time period is listed to the right of “Library Has.” This e-journal is available from 2005 to the present.

Or you may see:

Notice that the entries in the Full Title column for #1 and #2 are alike. Either selection will result in links to the full text.

You should now see a screen similar to the one at the top of the page. To access the e-journal, follow those instructions.

NOTE: If the e-journal is not available at any Pitt library, the PITTCat screen will read “PITTCat found no records that matched your search.”
Off-Campus Access

Off campus access to HSLS e-resources is available to Pitt users through Pitt Passport (https://passport.pitt.edu). If you start your search from the HSLS homepage, Pitt Passport knows when you are off-campus and will automatically prompt you to log in with your University Computer Account username and password, and to use the multifactor authentication required. UPMC residents and fellows have access to a selected group of HSLS e-resources including some full text journals, see https://www.hsls.pitt.edu/residents-fellows for details. For more details on remote access for Pitt and UPMC users, see https://www.hsls.pitt.edu/remote.

How to Get an Article HSLS Does Not Own

If the Health Sciences Library System does not have an article in print or online, a copy can be requested through the HSLS Document Delivery Service at https://www.hsls.pitt.edu/document-delivery for free. This service is available to authorized HSLS users only.
